

Warm-up: The Dust Bowl

Unit 12: The Great Depression

Name:

Date:

Period:

"Many years ago when our lands were first put into cultivation, of course, there was not as much in cultivation as is now but as the farming industry enlarged more and more was cultivated, as this was done more and more of nature's protection, grasses and trees, were destroyed, thereby leaving the land more susceptible to erosion. It has been the practice, and still is, for farmers to put additional land in cultivation when sections of his farm has become so badly eroded that it could not be farmed."
